

So You're to Serve On a Court-Martial

In this last of a series of articles written to assist you in your defense before a court martial, we have as members of a detail of the Court, Lieut. William E. Biegel, Adj. to the Court, and Capt. Edward S. Nance, the Commandant of Headquarters, Basic Training Center. In previous articles, Lieutenant Sibley, who is a member of the Student Training Regiment, described the duties of the Student Training Regiment, described the duties of the Trial Judge Advocate, the President of the Court, and the Trial Judge Advocate.

Having spent several months as Defense Counsel before a court martial, you are now prepared to speak. Your work as defense counsel is the most difficult and unanticipated task that your military career will embrace. As defense counsel in civilian life, you have that small matter of the law to consider, yet here you encounter a particularly obdurate jury. However, even that small consolation is denied the defense counsel before a court martial.

When you receive your orders, you will be called into the office of the Commandant of the Student Training Regiment, and there go over the list of the prosecution's witnesses with the accused. Ascertain how many of them are interested and disinterested.

One or more might have shown some animosity toward the accused. Some of them might be his best friends. All of this you will want to learn. Now take the summary of expected testimony of the prosecutor's witnesses.

Now go over this in detail with the accused, planning the questions to ask each when you cross examine.

DON'T GET ON A LIMB

The accused perhaps knows some witnesses that want to appear in his behalf so you locate these persons and with them go over the incident that gives rise to the charges. Ask questions them regarding all circumstances and facts leading to this incident. You must be familiar with the entire picture or you will probably find yourself out, a limb. You can't afford that.

Finally you have completed your investigation, and you are up to date, especially that regarding the admissibility of evidence.

Now go back to the accused and tell him what to expect. Tell him the facts, the law and what the findings probably will be.

Now make your plan for the defense.

Get every bit of evidence you can from the accused regarding the offense charged. Make notes if you desire (it always looks good, anyway.)

After you get all the facts from the accused, compare them with the proof required to sustain the charge on you, and advise the accused to plead guilty. (About half of the accused, after one look at me, decided to plead guilty.) If your accused agrees

For the purpose of this column, there is no individual counsel so you as regularly appointed defense counsel, take over and get the accused started to talking. that the wise thing to do is plead guilty then you spend all your effort building up the accused's good character and previous excellent record together with outlining mitigating circumstances.

However this accused is not guilty so you plan the defense to be used at the trial. Right then and there go over the list of the prosecution's witnesses with the accused. Ascertain how many of them are interested and disinterested.

Radio Set-up Slated For HC

Officers and enlisted personnel of Special Services Office, Harmony Church, recently met last Thursday at the SSO of Headquarters, Basic Training Center, to discuss policy and plans for the local connection being established for the area.

Studio facilities will be set up at two points in HC, according to plans already worked out. The major point of operation will be the Service Club No. 3. Shows to originate from Harmony Church will go out over WDAK Columbus Blue and Mutual network station.

Plans are to be made to have the show upon landing in the United States again. Nance, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin also holds the degree of LL.B. He practiced law for a short time before being called into the service. He has been invited to participate in the show to be produced and presented here, and time allotted to the area by WDAK will be used on an equitable basis, to the commandant's area. However, the actual operation of the local outlet will remain within the control of BTC.

Access to the ether waves by members stationed in the area will be given a great deal of publicity fine talent will find a medium for presentation for the first time under Army auspices. And although other units will definitely participate in the program, ASTP regiments will naturally be expected to take the initiative.

Maj. John G. MacFarlan, Special Service Officer for Basic Training Center, is certain that many men in ASTP regiments who have some radio experience will be able to produce a great number of really creditable radio productions. However, he pointed out, it is sometimes difficult to find just the men you want who also want to do the job.

CENTRAL CLEARING HOUSE In order to facilitate the production of radio shows a central talent clearing house is being set up to procure program material. The clearing house will be known as the ASTP radio workshop. Its purpose, besides the actual production of its own shows, will be to assist ASTP regiments and battalions with auditions and technical details they may encounter in staging their programs. The Workshop expects to discover some unusual amateur announcer and dramatic talent, and meet with technical background among the personnel of the regiments.

Operation of the Harmony Church Station of WDAK is expected to begin sometime shortly after the first of November. Programs will be announced in the ASTP PINE-BUR, in the BAYONET, and in the 131st Infantry NEWS.

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By Phyllis

When you're shopping or meandering about the town of Columbus do you often wish for a cozy and clean place in which to sip a soda or a "coke," or have an appetizing luncheon. If you're new in town, I'll tell you where to go for snacks of every sort. For you, as well as the him, the first place is the CITY PHARMACY, directly across the street from the Waverly Hotel. Quiet and neat, with extra-quick service, by attractive waitresses, luncheonette section serves well-prepared food ranging from toasted cheese sandwiches to a luncheon complete from consommé to dessert and coffee. One of the many thoughtful features here is the popular Shopper's Tea, served every afternoon for those in need of a bit of refreshment. After enjoying your meal, I suggest you take a bit and then see all the other interesting displays of the many sections of this most popular complete pharmacy in Columbus.

Corduroy, with all its appealing colors, is still one of the most practical and most popular materials used for children's wear. The ever popular and well-known SEARS, BOE-BUCK AND COMPANY, is recommending corduroy dresses and trousers for active children between the ages of five and fifteen. Wearing corduroy makes you look like a lassie, and navy blue flannel for the girls match the trousers and jackets for boys. So if you have both boys and girls, your clothing problems are pretty much solved for you right now. You'll be delighted, as I am, to see the prices of each of these garments displayed on the main floor of Sears, Roebuck and Company.

Military families will fill the air with huzzahs when they see the new Military Post dedicated to them by the J. A. KIEVEN COMPANY. This section is located in the Men's Shop on the 12th Street side of the store, and is appropriately decorated with articles designed to please all service men. Shirts, ties, scarves, hose, garters, dog tags, sweaters, gloves, shaving kits, junior size perfume, and cigarette cases for them at winter-Taylor's.

THE SOUND GOES ROUND AND ROUND. Felix L. Ghirlando of the National Broadcasting Company's crew of radio technicians is shown in an especially prepared dugout where he handled the sound controls of last Sunday's Army Hour Broadcast from The Infantry School. The broadcast, which involved the firing of howitzers as well as small arms, originated at Holliday Hill and Hook range. Mr. Ghirlando was moved up close to the impact area to catch the full effects of the explosions. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

Classification Team Interviews ASF EM's

Ten Army classification assignments from the Fourth Service Command arrived at Fort Benning Monday to interview all enlisted personnel in the Army Service Forces at the post to determine their classification by WAC classification assignment experts.

The program is to place each enlisted man in a position in which he can be of the greatest possible use to the war effort, Captain Weiland said.

Enlisted men were interviewed by organizations, and the interviews themselves were conducted by the enlisted men of the team assisted by selected classification personnel who aided in the verification of information on the Form 20 classification card. Selection of the Fort Benning enlisted men to assist in interviewing was made by the unit commanders with the assistance of personnel officers, classification officers and the team leaders.

As a result of the interviews, scores of men now to be assigned to jobs on which they are best suited may be reassigned locally, or in case of particular abilities which cannot be profitably utilized, a request is made of the soldier's authority to transfer his command to the service command and then to the War Department.

The team also sought any personnel skilled in the following critical military occupations: Diesel mechanic, construction carpenter, mail clerk, dental laboratory technician, meat and dairy inspector, engineer, operating key punch machine operator, tabulator.

TIS Student Is Just Back From Liberia

"Our ally Liberia, important base on the air route to the Middle East, has a small but formidable fighting force," declared Captain William D. Nabors of the 4th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, who recently returned from duty in that country to attend The Infantry School's Advanced Course.

"Liberian army units are organized, trained and equipped along American lines. Armed with Browning machine guns, B. A. R.'s and Garand rifles that we have taught them to use, the Liberians add a hard-hitting force to United Nations strength in West Africa. And the native soldiers, outlook and reactions, are different from those of our doughboys."

Captain Nabors knows Liberian fighting men. In the United States Army since 1912, he instructed them from 1919 to 1925, and again from 1936 until '41.

In 1912 Nabors enlisted in the old 9th Cavalry, and after three years were up. Transferring to the Medical Department, he served as sergeant 1 class—corresponding to staff—with the AEF in France and Germany.

When World War I ended Nabors was sent to Liberia as instructor on the staff of Brigadier General Benjamin O. Davis. Under an agreement reached with the United States in 1910, the African republic's army was to be patterned after the American, and when interrupted his supervision of the conversion job to fight in France, returned in 1919 with his staff of experienced Army instructors.

Nabors remained in Africa until 1925. Back in America, he became a captain in the new Service from 1931 'till 1936.

That year he again left as United States Military Adviser to Liberia. From his headquarters in Monrovia, Nabors, as a major on the Liberian staff, made endless rounds of army posts to supervise training and military education.

Others who showed exceptional ability on the .30 Cal. carbine range are: 1st Sgt. Kenneth P. Rountree, Co. "C," with a score of 181; and Sgt. Jack L. Lovell, and Sgt. George W. Smith, Service Company, with a 176 of a possible 200 score. Thus far in course of this firing, seventeen additional men have qualified as sharpshooters, and thirty-seven men as marksmen.

Active in veterans' affairs between wars, Nabors is a Past Commander of the Orange Post, V. F. W. His wife, Mrs. N. E. Nabors, resides at 31 Webster Place, Orange, N. J.

CAPTAIN HORLOCK

Fred H. Horlock, for many years a resident of Gulgut, Mississauga, a soldier in its local National Guard, has been promoted to captain. Attached to the 4th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel Robert H. Lovell, he is attending the Officers' Advanced Course at The Infantry School.

Don't fire too long from the same position. Move frequently so the enemy will not be able to attain accurate aim.

Be sure of your target before you shoot. Ineffective firing will reveal your position and draw enemy fire.

Maurene, Violin To Be Heard In Chapel Sunday

Maurene Moon, concert violinist, will play the offertory at the Main Post Chapel Sunday.

Miss Moon is an artist of appearance and reputation, having appeared in this country and in Europe with major orchestras. Mrs. Moon will play the slow movement from Wieniawski's concerto.

The choir will sing a solo arrangement of "The Three We Sing." Many fine singers have recently joined the choir, including a good number of sopranos and altoes from the WAC Detachments.

Mrs. J. O. Methoni is extending a cordial invitation to tenors and basses to join the choir, as they badly needed.

The new Children's Choir meets for rehearsal Friday at 6:30 p. m., and sings every Sunday during the 6:30 services. Adult choir rehearsals are held on Fridays at 8 p. m. and are open to anyone preparing the Christmas musical program. It was announced.

Sabers Romp to Easy 47-7 Win Over Daniel Field Foe

ARMY FOOTBALL'S ROUGH AND TOUGH as evidenced by these three splendid action shots of last Sunday's 300th-Daniel Field fuss at Doughboy Stadium. Above is Johnny Predl, Flier fullback, gaining three yards through the Saber line and about to be halted by Vic Heboson (2) and Hank Weller (24) of the victors. Lomberg (22) and Busby (34) are the other Fliers shown. At the above right Tony Encher of the Sabers is about to hit the turf after a wide end sweep. Note the grimace on the face of Flier 4, the guard, who has partly missed the tackle. Encher was later downed by the ever-present Mr. Busby (34) coming up in the center. Ike Peel is the Saber off to the left, leading the interference. The picture at the immediate right is what we consider the finest football shot of the year. It might be entitled 'Hey, come back here' since that's just about what Busby (the 235-pound Flier tackle) is saying as he tugs at the hips of Roger McCommons, new 300th back. The Saber speedster is about to fall into the arms of Sedlewitz while Heboson is the other Flier coming up. (All photos by Paul Stewart.)

Surprise Aerial Attack By 300th Too Much for Rival

DiBlasi, Mullin, and Allen Shine In Infantry School Eleven's Win

BY SGT. FORREST R. KYLE

The 300th Sabers very obligingly took to the air lanes last Sunday afternoon at Doughboy Stadium—perhaps just to make the visiting Daniel Field Fliers of Augusta, Ga., feel at home—and the results were so successful The Infantry School eleven overwhelmed the Fliers, 47 to 7.

Baten their last two times out by Georgia Tech and the 176th Spirits, the Sabers bounced back Sunday before another capacity crowd of 18,000 fans with an impressive offensive exhibition.

Their net yardage gained was an astonishing 518 yards, 274 by land and 244 by air.

The score might have been even higher had the 300th "varnity" not sat out the third period.

The reserves were unable to register against the Fliers. The regulars scored three fast touchdowns in the first quarter, two in the second and one in the fourth.

ALLEN SHIPTS TO AIR

Ernest Allen, ex-Kentucky halfback, who has been the spearhead of the Sabers' great attack all season, had one of his time-honored ways Sunday. After a long, hard run, he hauled a long pass to DiBlasi, who scored the ball on the 25 and galloped across the goal.

The third Saber touchdown in the opening period was helped along when pass interference was called on Daniel Field's 11. On the next play, Allen dashed into the end zone, the next play, DiBlasi passed into the flat to DiBlasi, who scurried 10 yards to the pait.

The Sabers marched 60 yards for their first of two touchdowns in the second period with Allen again the hero. After a long run, he hauled back a long pass with the Fliers' guards were mouse-trapped, time and again. Allen suddenly switched to the air and flipped a pass to the air and flipped a pass to Mullins, good to the Fliers' 11. On a double reverse, Mullins scampered through right tackle, shook snake-hipped his way to the two touchdowns. Johnny Simcox was in top form, too, running smartly from the tailback slot and tossing one of the three touchdown passes which dropped into the hands of which dropped into the hands of DiBlasi, W. & L. back.

The charging Saber line bottled up the Fliers' running attack, which was built on the "T" formation, and heeled big Tony DiToma so much he could complete only six of 21 passes. One to Johnny Long, a lateral, was the westerner's only completed on the second 14-yard line in the second quarter and set up the Fliers' only touchdown. A five-yard penalty moved the ball to the nine and Bute Simmons, who made a great catch on the 15-yard line and legged it to the goal.

Joe Routt booted three points after touchdown and Peel and Mullins each kicked one.

The Sabers received the opening kickoff and rolled 37 yards in eight running plays for a touchdown. Tennessee's Bill Novak and Mullins powered the march

PAY-DIRT EARLY

Easy Peel, Tennessee blocking back, produced the sixth counter, sliding off left guard from the one-yard line after Allen had passed to Allan Parr and Mullins to set the stage.

A few minutes later Allen wound up a passing display by moving the ball to the nine and Bute Simmons, who made a great catch on the 15-yard line and legged it to the goal.

TIS Officer Spent 35 Bathless Weeks On Vigil In 'Coldest' Greenland

First Lieutenant Randolph P. Eddy, of the 1st Student Training Regiment, famed for his lonely vigil in Greenland, again found himself in the limelight when a two-page article in "Yank" featured him as performer of the "highest Assignment in the Army."

Eddy, a member of Captain E. M. Kenney's 6th Company, is attending the Officers Advanced Course at The Infantry School. Duty in the jungles of Panama preceded his Arctic assignment.

The story went in detail how Lieutenant Eddy, in command of six men, spent 35 weeks on the Greenland ice cap without seeing a woman, receiving any mail from home, or even having a bath. Altogether, Lieutenant Eddy spent about 18 months in Greenland. About half that in detail, the base command, which was like the luxury compared to life on the ice cap.

This is Lieutenant Eddy's second stay at The Infantry School. From Panama he was posted to attend the Officers Candidate School and was graduated in April 1942.

Lieutenant Eddy's home is in Boston, Mass. Before the bugles sounded, he was a student at both Dartmouth and Harvard.

The loganberry, regarded as a hybrid of the wild blackberry, first appeared in a private yard in Santa Cruz, Calif.

At the beginning of 1942 there were an estimated 13.4 million vacuum cleaners in American homes.

Loose Talk Did This!!! Beware of It

There are times when a hapless GI makes a mistake that backfires. Pvt. Gordon Markstrom of the 300th Infantry, The Infantry School at Fort Benning, made one recently and now he is paying through the nose.

He promised the little woman, Mrs. Markstrom, that he would write all of her letters twice as long as she wrote them.

The other day to his consternation, he received a bulky envelope containing a forty-page letter.

Famed Jumper Is Lt. Colonel

Major E. Verne Stewart, director of specialized training at Parachute School at Fort Benning, has been promoted to lieutenant-colonel.

A veteran of 23 years in civilian and army parachuting, Major Stewart has 350 jumps to his credit. Most of these were amassed during his career as a professional parachutist, when he traveled the country-round, jumping at air shows, country fairs and generally barnstorming. He then operated a parachuting school of his own in Chicago, where he taught rigging and jumping techniques.

As a first lieutenant in the National Guard, Col. Stewart, shortly afterward he transferred to the parachutists corps, with whom he has risen to present grade.

Col. Stewart boasts a colorful career, having served during the last war as a mechanician to the General Billy Mitchell Corp. He also is a member of the Caterpillar Club, having used a parachute to save his life.

Three Arts League Offers 200 Free Soldier Tickets

The Three Arts League will give 200 free memberships to the 1943-44 concert series to soldiers. The concert series will be opened on November 18 by James Melton, Metropolitan tenor; and will include one by Helen Howell, dramatist on December 10; by Draper and Adler, world famous tap dancer and harmonica player, on January 11 and by Sanroma, pianist, on February 14.

Any soldier desiring a secure ticket may do so by applying at the area hostess of the Three Arts League, Mrs. Edgar Bullock in Columbus.

The Three Arts League regrets that a smaller seating capacity at the Jordan auditorium makes it impossible to give complimentary tickets to wives of soldiers. However, men may secure tickets through Mrs. Edgar Bullock in Columbus.

George M. Talbott has been promoted to captain. He is attending the Officers Advanced Course at The Infantry School as a member of the 18th Company, the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel Robert H. Lord. Talbott was born with Company E of the 66th Infantry, a light tank unit at Fort Benning, from 1938 to 1939 before entering Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, Ga. SCHOOL IS CHEAPER

It has been estimated that it will be cheaper keeping a soldier in school for a year than to keep him in the field $1,500.

Those committed on the basis of 12,000,000 in the armed forces, estimated that a minimum of 1,000,000 persons might be expected to return to school or take up new courses.

Although plans for administrative and financial programs have not been completely formulated, it will probably be worked out with state cooperation.

Servicemen and women, who desire the additional schooling services to be provided, are invited to contact the Director of Education, Department of War, Washington, D. C.

LONG-RANGE PROGRAM

The proposal is for a long range of post-war readjustment of services and women and men. It has been stressed that the government is providing excellent care for those in training during the war and that it will be same after the war.

The schedule of allowances for the students—in addition to tuition—proposed by the committee is $55 monthly for single persons, $75 for married men, and $10 for each child.
